I've been running in circles, thinking I might get somewhere
I've been wearing myself out just swinging at ghosts in the air
I've been planning my speeches and my victory dance
I've been planning to make quite a name for myself when I get a chance

Till you break my heart again, Till you break my heart again

I've been jumping off buildings, thinking I might like to fly
I've been taking my rescues for granted thinking I might not die

I've been running in circles, I've been playing the game
I've been living off yesterday so long,
Today starts to feel like a dream
And I'm feeling the weight of who I have become Bend my back like an old man, O, I feel like an old man
I am feeling the weight of who I have become
And I'll keep living bent until you
